Nfl week 12 spreadsheet

What is a spread 'Em Pool? We spread 'Em pool also is known as an ATS or Scattered Pool account. Every week, on either Sunday or Monday, we'll update the sheet next week with the current scatter point per game. You'll then pass copies from potential participants to your pool, having each participant try to correctly choose which team will cover the spread. Due to not knowing whether a key player will be able to participate in a game, there are some cases where the linemakers may delay their spread release until later in the week. If this is the case we'll come up with spread ourselves, this will ensure you have the full week to get your pool entrance. What is the spread? Besides the name of each team you'll see something like -4.5 or +4.5. The team that has the minus sign fostered by 4.5 points with the team and the plus sign is below by 4.5 points. In this example, for a pick to be correct, the favorite must contain by 5 or more points. We will always use half point-spread so that there will never be any push/pull. Keep in mind that if someone chooses the bottom, this team doesn't have to win, but instead can't lose by more points than the point spread. Example: The Participant selected Cleveland at +4.5 (under). Cleveland can either win, or lose the game by up to 4 points with the correct pick. Whether they've lost by 5 or more the pick would be correct. Fill leaves every participant should put a check mark in the box provided beside the team that they think will cover the spread. Each one should write down their names and guess them for the total points scored in Monday night's game in the space given. The Tiebreaker is to be used, whether after each game (including the game Monday night) 2 or more people chose the same number of games correctly. I prefer to use the person who is simply closer to the score total points, as opposed to the closest without going on. Winning the Pool simply totals up the number of games each person has chosen correctly, the total person above is the winner. My favorite variation the way they run this pool is to allow participants to pick half of their games against the spread half and the other half as a pool straight 'em pool. The pool managers don't say which games will choose ATS, but instead every participant has the option of picking that the most trustworthy game will cover the spread and which games are confident of just a team winning.
